Middlesof-the Road Populists Decide to Cut Loose from the National Committee.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 13.—With but two exceptions the Populists who came here yesterday from twenty States at the call of the national organization committee appointed at the Nashville Convention are of the middle-of-the-road wing of the party. These exceptions are Geo. F. Washburn, of Boston, and Editor Farrish, of Jolet, Ill., both members of the national executive committee of which Senator Marion Butler, of North Caroline, is chairman. Although they both profess fealty to the policy of nonfusion, they are looked on with suspicion by the out and out middle-of-the-road. ers and are being watched closely to ers and are being whiched closely to see what their intentions in coming to the conferences are.

Thus far Chairman Butler has failed in any way to recognize the organization committee. This action on the part of Mr. Butler, who was a strong advocate of fusion with the Democratic part of Mr. Butter, who was a strong advocate of tusion with the Democrafts at the last election will, so Chairman Park declares, compel the organization committee to take independent action as to the future policy of the party irrespective of the national committee.

To make Washburn show his hand the chairman yesterday appointed him of the Committee on Resolutions and Procedure. This committee consists of the following prominent characters in the People's party: Frank Burkitt Mississippi; John O. Zazel, Michigan J. J. Dixon, Missouri; W. L. Teet Georgia; George F. Washburn, Massachusetts; W. S. Morgan, Arkansa Harry Tracy, Texas; L. D. Reynolds Mississippi; Jacob S. Coxey Oht, L. Minns, Tehnasse: J. F. Willets Kansas.

The committee held an all light.

The committee held an all night session and when the time for the meeting of the conference came the morning it had a report ready.
